

The Oakland Tribune

2 Punct!

Listen up, kids! It's time to get excited! Because Sunday is National Punctuation Day! And how do you celebrate Punctuation Day? Well, you learn things like how to write. "It's time to get excited!" Can you tell we're excited? And "we're excited" is something else you can learn!

In fact, Punctuation Day founder Jeff Rubin is so excited to be celebrating this young holiday for a third time since its founding in 2003 that he has created an interactive in-class program of performances and activities that teach proper punctuation in fun ways to students in grades one through four. It's called Punctuation Playtime, and if you doubt that it's actually fun, then you must not have heard the punctuation rap song yet. Word to your comma!

For more information, or to book an in-school performance of Punctuation Playtime, call Rubin at jeff@nationalpunctuationday.com or at (877) 588-1212. And we promise: It'll be fun!

FROM CANDACE "I" MURPHY
AND WIRE REPORTS