

THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROMOTION OF GOOD GRAMMAR

AN ONLINE JOURNAL IN WHICH MEMBERS OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROMOTION OF GOOD GRAMMAR DOCUMENT THEIR NOBLE EFFORTS.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 2009

National Punctuation Day

OMG!!!!

National Punctuation Day is Thursday; how will you celebrate?

SPOGG's planning to use every punctuation mark from A-Z in this post, something that seemed like a good idea a few minutes ago, but now seems sort of silly--especially after the blatant exclamation-point-abuse in our opening sentence. "Did we really start a post with OMG," we wonder.

A quick review of the punctuation marks we've highlighted thus far: exclamation point, semicolon, question mark, apostrophe, en-dash, comma, em-dash, quotation marks, hyphen, colon... and now ellipsis. What are we missing?

Oh, that's right. The virgule. A punctuation mark/50-cent word. Happy National Punctuation Day!

Do let us know if we've forgotten anything. It is Monday, after all.

POSTED BY MARTHA BROCKENBROUGH AT 9:13 AM

LABELS: NATIONAL PUNCTUATION DAY

SPOGG HAS A BOOK

Ten percent of our royalties goes to support The National Brain Tumor Society.

FOLLOWERS

with Google Friend Connect

