

Gossip Jackal

National Punctuation Day (PHOTO)

Friday, 24 Sep 2010

0 Comments

National Punctuation Day!!!!

Bariatric Surgery Doctors

Alta Bates Summit Medical Center The Bariatric Center of Excellence
www.AltaBatesSummit.org

Perhaps surprisingly to many, there is at least some significance to September 24th each year.

That is because it is known as National Punctuation Day.

AdChoices ▶

The celebrated day was started by a man named

Jeff Rubin in 2004 because of his annoyance with all of the punctuation errors that he kept seeing in the newspapers he was reading.

Some ways given to celebrate the occasion are as follows: Read a newspaper and circle every punctuation error that you can find, and look for any punctuation errors that you can find anywhere else.

You are encouraged to look for these errors particularly in public areas.

We've included a photo of a cake which shows a subtle but obvious misuse of quotation marks. Enjoy.

National Punctuation Day (PHOTO)